CONTENTS.

No.		Page
	Prospectus, &c.
1.	On the utility of Scientific periodical publications. .	1
2.	Of weights and measures.	3
3.	Report made by the physical and mathematical class of the Institute in answer to the question, whether those manufactories, from which a disagreeable smell arises, may prove injurious to health. By messrs. Guyton-Morveau and Chaptal.	22
4.	A Memoir on the art of making gun-flints. By Citizen Dolomieu.	33
5.	Wooden matches for artillery to be used instead of Rope match, or port-fires. By C. L. Cadet. . . .	46
6.	Account of a violent explosion which happened in a Flour warehouse, at Turin, December the 14th 1785; to which are added some observations on spontaneous Inflammations By Count Morozzo.	55
7	Description of a moveable table, for the use of engravers; invented by the Abbé Joseph Longhi, of Monza. . .	64
8.	Views of the manufactures in the United States; derived from the returns made to the Treasury, pursuant to an act of Congress, passed May 1st, 1810. In a letter from S. L. Mitchill, to the hon. Thomas Newton. . .	68
9	Patents, observations on, ...	76
	List of American, ...	78
	——— English, ...	79
	Intelligence—New process for refining sugar, . .	80
10.	Tables relating to the three thermometers now used, and for reducing the degrees of Beaumé's Areometer . .	81
11.	Account of a spontaneous inflammation, which happened at Spalding, in Lincolnshire.	90
12.	Account of a spontaneous inflammation, which happened in India; by Isaac Humfries, Esq.	92
13.	Observations on spontaneous Inflammations; with a particular account of that which happened on board a Russian Frigate in the year 1781; and of the experiments made in order to ascertain the cause of it. By the rev. William Tooke, F. R. S. &c. &c. . . .	94
14.	Description of a stove on the principles of the Swedish fireplace, with head-openings, by Citizen Guyton. . .	105
15.	Description of the different methods of blowing up rocks

No. Page

under water. By A. Baillet, inspector of mines. . 114

16. Agenda; or a collection of observations and researches the results of which may serve as the foundation for a theory of the earth. By M. de Saussure. . . . 122

17. A Treatise on the cultivation of the Vine, and the method of making Wines. By C. Chaptal. 131

18. Observations on maddering; together with a simple and certain process for obtaining, with great beauty and fixity, that colour known under the name of the Turkey or Adrianople red. By J. M. Haussmann. . . 139

19. Extract from the memoir of Messrs. Mouchel, of l'Aigle, in the department de l'Orne, on the manufacture of iron and steel wire. 147

20. Method of preparing ox-gall in a concentrated state for painters, and for other uses. By Richard Cathery. . 151

21. Experiments on the growth of white thorn, pointing out a better method of propagating that valuable plant than had before been practised. By Samuel Taylor, Esq. of Moston, near Manchester. 153

22. List of Patents, (continued) 157

23. Intelligence—Spent oil of the curriers. 160

24. On the combustion of the human body, produced by the long and immoderate use of spiritous liquors. By Pierre-Aime Lair. 161

25. A Treatise on the cultivation of the Vine, and the method of making Wines. By C. Chaptal. 178

26. Agenda; or a collection of observations and researches the results of which may serve as the foundation for a theory of the earth. By M. de Saussure. . . . 193

27. Observations on maddering; together with a simple and certain process for obtaining, with great beauty and fixity, that colour known under the name of the Turkey or Adrianople red. By J. M. Haussmann. . . . 208

28. Description of an improvement in Jury Masts. By Capt. William Bolton, of the Royal Navy. . . . 216

29. Letter from Capt. William Bolton, of the royal navy, on his improved jury masts, and on a contrivance for better securing the shrouds of ships. 217

30. Description of a capstan, that works without requiring the messenger or cable coiled round it to be ever surged. By J. Witley Boswell, Esq. of Clifford's Inn. . 220

31. A brief account of the manufacture of gilt buttons, comprising some Improvements important to manufacturers. communicated by Messrs. Collard and Frazer, of Birmingham. 228

32. List of Patents. 234

Intelligence—Etching on glass with fluoric acid. . 238

Miscellaneous Articles, viz. On the proper elevation of artillery—Oak leaves substituted for bark, in tanning—

No. Page

Nocturnal watch—Brunswick green—Cement for cracked iron vessels 239

33. On spontaneous inflammations. By C. Bartholdi, Professor of Natural Philosophy and Chemistry. . . 241

34. Addition to a memoir on the method of giving to cotton and linen thread the Adrianople Red, aud other fixed Colours, and on spontaneous Inflammation. By J. M. Haussmann. 253

35. Agenda, or a Collection of Observations and Researches, the Results of which may serve as the foundation for a theory of the earth. By M. de Saussure. . . 262

35.*Description of a Portable bridge, invented by Mr. James Elmes, architect, of College-Hill, Queen-Street, Cheapside, London 268

36. A Treatise on the cultivation of the Vine, and the method of making Wines. By C. Chaptal. 270

37. On the penetration of balls into uniform resisting substances. By W. Moore, Esq. 277

38. Of Telegraphic communication. 289

39. On Signals made by Fire. 294

40. Description of a cheap and efficacious Ventilator for preserving corn on ship-board. By Thomas South, Esq. . 307

41. Directions for constructing a cheap bed and elastic frame, for the easy conveyance of sick or wounded persons, invented by Patrick Crighton, Lieutenant-colonel of the second Regiment royal Edinburgh volunteers. . 316

Intelligence—Indelible ink. 320

42. On the spontaneous ignition of charcoal: by B. G. Sage, Member of the Institute, founder and director of the first school of mines. 322

43. Agenda; or a collection of observations and researches the results of which may serve as a foundation for a theory of the earth. By M. de Saussure. . . . 328

44. A Treatise on the cultivation of the Vine, and the method of making Wines. By C. Chaptal. 343

45. Method of obviating the necessity of lifting ships. By Mr. Robert Seppings, of Chatham Yard. . . . 363

46. On the irregularity in the rate of going of time-pieces occasioned by the influence of Magnetism. By Mr. Varley 371

47. Description of a camp Telegraph, invented by Knight Spencer, Esq. secretary to the Surry Institution. . 376

48. Invention of a Homograph, or method of communication by signals, on sea or land. By Lieutenant James Spratt. 382

49. Improvement of Nooth's apparatus; in a letter from Dr. Wilkins of Baltimore. 387

50. List of Patents. 390

Intelligence—English incendiary fusees examined. . 399

Preservation of butter. 400

English cheese. . . . . ibid.

Contents.

No.		Page
51.	A Treatise on the cultivation of the Vine, and the method of making Wines. By C. Chaptal. . . .	401
52.	A mode of conveying intelligence from a reconnoitring party. In a letter from a correspondent, to W. Nicholson, Esq.	447
53.	Account of a machine for performing the thread-work in Shoe-making in a standing posture; contrived, and for many years constantly used by Thomas Holden, Shoemaker, &c.	448
54.	Description of a machine for the use of shoemakers. By Mr. Thomas Parker.	452
55.	Description of an improved File for receipts and letters. By Richard White, Esq. of Essex-Street. . .	453
56.	Description of Mr. Davis's improved Machine for painters and glaziers.	454
57.	Agenda, or a collection of observations and researches, the results of which may serve as the foundation for a theory of the earth. By M. De Saussure. . .	456
58.	List of Patents	473

The following Engravings occur in this volume.

1. Head of Lavoisier.
2. Engraved title page.
3. Instruments for making Gun-flints.
4. Moveable table for engravers.
5. Vignette—Steam boat.
6. Swedish stove.
7. Blasting rocks under water.
8. Head of Franklin.
9. Improved Jury-masts, &c.
10. Improved capstan.
11. Furnace for the manufacture of gilt buttons.
12. Etching with fluoric acid.
15. Portable bridge.
14. Signals by fire.
15. Ventilator for corn.
16. Bed &c. for the sick and wounded.
17. Vignette—Architecture.
18. To obviate the lifting of ships.
19. Camp telegraph.
20. Homograph.
21. Nooth's apparatus improved.
22. Improved letter file.
23. Head of sir I. Newton.
24. Machine for glaziers &c.
25. Hippograph.
26. Machine for Shoemakers.
27. Do. Do.